

MA in Law, University of Catania.

2003: one-year international studies program, Brussels.

2003-2006: EU consultancies, international organizations and multinational companies, Belgium.

2007 He moved to Rome for a one-year program in diplomacy, but at the end, he decided to teach Italian as a foreign language.

From 2009 to 2011, he attended training programs at Perugia and Siena universities for foreigners, where he received DITALS certificates and specialization in didactics of Italian as a foreign language.

Since 2009, he has been teaching Italian to students from around the world, as either a private tutor or teacher in language schools, including substitutions for teachers at some American schools in Rome.

Since 2012, he has taught personnel of multinational companies, and has relocated to Italy for job reasons, on behalf of the IOR Global Services, Chicago (USA).

In 2011, he prepared a group of students for CELI – Perugia university language certification for foreigners at an adult education center of Rome.

In 2010, he worked at the Centro Italiano di Cultura, Moscow, with groups of Russian students.

In 2010, he took part in a teaching program aimed at foreign detainees at Casal del Marmo detention center for minors, Rome.

He volunteered for local development cooperation NGO as a young adult, and since then he has been doing voluntary language tuition for migrants in Rome.

Since 2013, he has been working as an Italian language teacher with Percorsi d'Italiano.